Juan Beltre, Senior Designer
2006 Olympics in Turin

Juan is a graphic designer and animator for broadcast media. He creates show opens, transitions and other animation for clients such as Oxygen Media, CSTV-College Sports Television and NBC Universal. He was recently one of three Senior Designers responsible for the look, style and animation of the 2006 Winter Olympic games in Torino, Italy. Juan is interested in developing animated short films, which he works on in his 'spare time' away from broadcast design.

Gina Jean-Charles, Design Director, Lifetime Television Interactive Department

Gina graduated from CCNY in 1995 and went on to earn a Master's degree in Communications Arts [in New Media] from Pratt Institute in 2000. While at Pratt, she worked as a web designer for PricewaterhouseCoopers. After graduation she became an Art Director at Illusion Fusion and worked on interactive interfaces for clients such as Sony and Erickson. After a stint at NDS designing interactive television applications she became Design Director of the Interactive Department at Lifetime Television.

Russell Murray, Assistant VP and Creative Director, Citigroup Private Bank

Russell is Assistant Vice President and Creative Director for the Global Wealth Structuring division of The Citigroup Private Bank. He is responsible for the design and production of marketing materials, websites and other communications. He has held art direction and design positions at The Princeton Review, Time Warner, Star Media and Freeride. Having recently returned to CCNY to complete his BA, Russell plans to earn an MBA to complement his career as a creative professional.
