

CITY COLLEGE FELLOWSHIPS

Application Information and Instructions

WHAT THEY ARE

City College Fellowships help support talented students who are considering entering Ph.D. programs in preparation for careers as college teachers and/or researchers. The fellowship program aims to develop the next generation of faculty, starting with the undergraduate training of Fellows and culminating in their placement in Ph.D. programs.

The heart of the program is an undergraduate experience with special opportunities for academic and personal enrichment. The Fellows become actively involved members of a close-knit community of aspiring scholars from numerous disciplines. They participate in ventures that draw them together as a group, teaching and learning from one another, as well as from the faculty.

Upon admission to the program, each Fellow chooses a faculty mentor—a professor engaged in teaching, research, and other professional pursuits. Fellows will work with their mentors on guided research projects and, with the help of the mentors, experience the culture and activities of academic life.

Each semester, Fellows gather to participate in a forum that highlights aspects of research and academic life, as well as in workshops that help them prepare successful applications to graduate school. At the annual spring research conference, Fellows are encouraged to present their research.

BENEFITS

City College Fellowships provide the following benefits:

- A stipend of $1,000 per semester for four semesters with the possibility of extension by written appeal.
- Eligibility for additional funds for academic support, including: research expenses; travel to conferences, research libraries, and archives; tuition to study-abroad programs, language-training courses, or other appropriate programs or internships; and summer stipends.
- Mentoring from a faculty member.
- Pre-graduate school advising including workshops on financial aid, applying to graduate programs, writing the personal statement, and preparing to take the GRE.
- Participation in the Fellowship Program's annual spring research conference.

HOW TO APPLY

Eligibility

- A minimum of 3.0 grade point average and exceptional scholarly promise;
- Earned between 40 and 80 credits by the end of the semester in which the application is made (or have three to five more semesters before graduation);
- A desire to matriculate in a Ph.D. program and to pursue a career in research and teaching at the college or university level.
- The intention to major in a discipline in the Humanities and Arts, Social Sciences, Sciences, or Computer Science. (Architecture, Engineering, and Sophie Davis students are not eligible.)

Application

A complete application will contain:

- Two or more letters of recommendation from faculty members or others familiar with the applicant's academic career and potential;
- For those who have attended a college other from City College, a college transcript.

Letters of recommendation should be sent directly to the Admissions Committee by those who write them. All documents should be mailed to: City College Fellowships Office, (NAC 6/316), The City College of New York, New York, NY 10031.

Application Deadlines

Fall semester applications are due by December 1.

Spring semester applications are due by May 1.

Interview

The most promising applicants will be invited to attend an interview with the Director along with members of the Advisory Committee and faculty mentors. Interviews will be held one to two weeks after applications are due.

Selection Criteria

Selection will be based on the strength of the student's academic record, academic focus and goals, and the faculty recommendations. Recipients of a fellowship will be notified before the start of the next semester.

RECOMMENDATIONS

List the two or more sponsors who are writing your recommendations.

Note: Only two recommendations are required. Since this is an academic fellowship, at least two letters should be from faculty members. Letters from academic advisors tend to be far less useful.
