

Academic Probation, Dismissal, and Reinstatement

Academic Probation

If your GPA drops below 2.0 you are automatically on Academic Probation. Once you are on academic probation, you must earn at least a 2.5 GPA in each following semester until your cumulative GPA rises to 2.0 or above. On probation, you may be limited in the number of classes you are allowed to take in a semester, and you are not allowed to take courses on permit, or register during the Summer Semester. The Committee on Course and Standing or your academic advisor may set additional restrictions on your enrollment.

Dismissal

If you do not maintain the minimum GPA of 2.5 while on probation, you may be dismissed from the College, and cannot attend any CUNY classes for a minimum of one semester. In general, only students who can demonstrate improved academic readiness may appeal to the appropriate Committee on Course and Standing for reinstatement.

Re-entry / Reinstatement

A student who has been out of City College for a semester or more (whether for personal reasons or because of Academic Dismissal) must file a Readmission Application with the Office of Admissions at least 3 months before the start of the semester. If the applicant's GPA is below 2.0 then he/she must also submit a written appeal for reinstatement to the IAS-CWE Dean. If a professional school (for CWE students, this would be the School of Education) turns down a re-entry request, the student can make a final appeal for reinstatement to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. The student will need to indicate an interest in a specific area of study offered by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.
