SPRING
2021

Dear CWE Community,

First of all, Happy New Year, and I hope that you and your family are doing fine.

Here we are again, another year and another semester. Even though the pandemic continues to create devastation in our country and around the world, we are hopeful because our democracy is strong and a new administration took over imposing a sense of normalcy and transparency, and hope in the air. As I said before, the last 12 months have been an extraordinary time that we've had to confront on many levels. It's been difficult for so many of us and calamitous for those of you who have lost a friend and/or a loved one. And we all know someone who has lost a job. All of this has stretched us to our limits, but we have been able to bring out the best in us to deal with these situations.

I have said this to you on numerous occasions during the last twelve months, but it merits repeating: seeing what you, the faculty, staff and students, working together, have been able to accomplish during this devastating year is simply amazing.

Here are some facts that show how well we have done during this tough time:

We have been able to keep a healthy enrollment; we've maintained programs and even created new ones: accelerated programs, a new in house Podcast with amazing conversations and interviews, the Human Rights Forum, and the 2nd International Conference on Human Rights, Lectures, International Academic Conferences, the International Film Festival which is still growing, the International Poetry Festival, and the list goes on.

We are already working on planning academic activities for this year. I would like to emphasize an extraordinary seminar we'll have on "Global Narratives of Crime, War and Justice", by Luis Moreno Ocampo, Founder Chief Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court, planned for May 2021. Moreno Ocampo, in conjunction with us, is providing thirty scholarships for CCNY students. Moreover, we are adding a new event in our Division, Black Lives Matter, demonstrating our commitment to this extremely important subject matter; more information on it to come.

During this difficult time, you have been doing exceptional work, and I strongly believe that the future will be better. Each of you as individuals can make a difference, but collectively we can do much more. Empathy is key. Let's remember to be kind, flexible, and to take a moment to consider what our colleagues, students and neighbor might be going through.

Thank you again for all that you continue to do.

RANKED # 4 IN THE USA

City College’s Early Childhood Education Program, a partnership between the Division of Interdisciplinary Studies and the School of Education, ranks #4 of the most affordable Early Childhood programs in the US.

City College Downtown - Division of Interdisciplinary Studies at CWE, in partnership with CCNY’s School of Education, offers a nationally accredited Bachelor’s Degree in Early Childhood Education, leading to NYS teaching certification (Birth-Grade 2). Through coursework, fieldwork, certification exams, and student teaching, students learn to be effective teachers with an understanding of child development and behavior, the needs of diverse learners, ethical and responsible decision making, and child welfare. Program participants are well prepared to go on to complete a Master’s degree.

ACCELERATED MA PROGRAM

The Division of Interdisciplinary Studies has an Accelerated Master’s Program! The Accelerated Master’s Program will enable talented and motivated undergraduate students in the BA degree in Interdisciplinary Arts & Sciences to enroll in courses in the MA in the Study of the Americas, to connect your concentration area to a broader study of the Americas, and to complete this MA degree soon after receiving a Bachelor’s degree in Interdisciplinary Arts & Sciences.
