Office of Communications and Marketing

Drupal CMS
As a Content Editor, it is important to recognize and understand the following features:

Once you are logged on – done by simply going to CCNY.CUNY.EDU and clicking on the Login drop-down from the homepage and selecting Content Editor

You will see your personal login screen. This login screen features a list of sites the you as a content editor are responsible for. All content editors will see Media Library listed as this is where images are shared across campus by the Office of Communications and Marketing or any other subgroup.

At the top Left corner of the screen you will see:

Add Content
Find Content
Basic Page
Using these key features, you will add content to your subsite, find content that you or a peer content editor have added, or create (new) a basic page.

Once on your area subsite, you will notice that the View and Edit tabs display at the top of each page. This is how you either View the page as published or Edit the page to make changes.
Once inside the Edit area of a page you will notice at the bottom of the page you have two new options:

Revision log – Create editing versions – This will be discussed in detail in pages to come.

Scheduling of content to go live/publish – Create a page or edit a page and publish it to go live at a later date.
All pages, news events, calendar events, and posts are all on “Modify current revision, no moderation”. When creating or editing, CHANGE TO “Create new revision and moderate” No Exceptions.

Once the revision is created, an administrator must publish the new version. To do so, go to the main page and click view changes.

Inside view changes, the most updated version should be in red. To update to the most current version, click the date.

Confirmation of the revision post should come up at the top of the page.
