The CCNY School of Education and The Colin L. Powell School for Civic and Global Leadership present

Creating Effective Community Partnerships for School Improvement

with Hazel M. Carter
Wednesday, October 16, 2013
Shepard Hall, Room 558
4:30-6:00pm

Grounded in case study analysis, this workshop explores research-based strategies for educators to make on-the-ground connections, and implement and sustain effective community partnerships.

Those who are interested in education reform efforts, specifically collaborative programs, will find this workshop useful in its pragmatic and innovative approach to addressing various issues faced by schools, including the dropout problem and college access.

Similarly, professionals from the public school system, higher education, policy-makers and the wider community can use this workshop as a guide to develop effective collaborative programs.

Seats for this event are limited. If you would like to attend, please RSVP to: hcart@ccny.cuny.edu

For more information, contact:

Hazel M. Carter, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor
Director, Educational Leadership Program
School of Education
The City College of New York
Phone: 212-650-6264
Email: hcart@ccny.cuny.edu