Updated Information for Students on the NY State Teacher/Leader Examinations

EdTPA Safety Net
The ATS/W examination can be used in place of the edTPA under one of the following two conditions:
(1) You received a passing score on the ATS/W before April 30, 2014 AND have completed and submitted the edTPA but did not receive a passing score, OR
(2) You completed and submitted the edTPA but received a failing score and after you have received this score, you take the ATS/W and receive a passing score before May 31, 2015. You will then have one more year, until May 31, 2016, to pass the ALST, EAS and CST. You can be certified only when you have passed all of these other examinations.

Test Vouchers
CCNY has received vouchers for students to retake examinations that they have failed but these vouchers are only good until June 30, 2015 (You must register by that date but may schedule the examination for a later date). To take advantage of these vouchers, you will need to make plans very soon. Details will be available soon.

Support
The SOE is providing workshops for the ALST and the EAS; the schedule for these workshops has been finalized and is posted outside of the Learning Resource Center (3/226) and also available on flyers and through e-mail. The new examinations are different from previous ones and more difficult; do not attempt to take or retake an examination without registering for a workshop or studying from the resources listed below. The Leadership Program is offering a series of Saturday prep sessions for the SBL exams.

Multi-Subject CST
Students who took and passed the previous Multi-Subject CST before September 22, 2014 will not have to take the new Multi-Subject CST. An exception is the new CST 7-12 Multi-Subject. All Special Education 7-12 candidates must take and pass this new examination for certification.
